GOVERNMENT DROPS GLASS PROTECTION WHEN PRICES RISE

Ottawa Takes Prompt Action to Protect Consumers
When Retailers Increase Prices of Imported Product and Manufacturers Make No Move to Start Canadian Plant

Premier Bennett Cabled From London to Take Prompt Action

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—Increased duties on window glass approved at the last session of Parliament, have been revoked. This action constitutes the first definite step of this kind by the Government to protect the consumer against enhanced price of commodities, the duty of which were increased. The action, according to an official statement issued by Sir George Perley, acting Prime Minister, today, follows complaints that the prices of ordinary window glass to the consumer have been doubled since the special session of Parliament.

Inquiry by the Government, it is stated, resulted in the conclusion that no active steps have been taken to produce glass in Canada by those having factories here.

OLD RATES APPLY

Duties on window glass now return to what they were before the special session of Parliament, namely 7 1/2 per cent under the British preference, 12 1/2 per cent under the intermediate and the same under the general tariffs. The schedules approved at the last session divided the commodity into classes and fixed specific rates which were a great deal higher than those which had been effective.

Strenuous debate followed the introduction of the new glass schedules into the House of Commons. Premier Bennett read to the House a letter from the Canadian Libbey-Owens Sheet Glass Company, Limited, in which that company undertook to take immediate steps to bring its Canadian plant into operation if the increased duties were granted. There was to be no increased price, a number of undertakings from manufacturers declared.

PREMIER GAVE WARNING

Prime Minister Bennett said if the prices were increased duties would come down. The Government had the power to reduce the duties whenever it felt that the undertaking had not been lived up to.

Sir George Perley issued the following statement:

"During the special session when the increases in the tariff were under discussion, the Prime Minister stated repeatedly that the Government would not permit consumers to be exploited or to pay excessive prices and that if anything of that sort were attempted, the Government would exercise its power to reduce the rates of duty. Complaints have come to the Government that the price of ordinary window glass to consumers has been doubled since the special session, and after inquiry the Government had learned that no active steps have so far been taken to produce glass in Canada by those having factories here."

MUST PROTECT CONSUMERS

"Under the circumstances, the Prime Minister was communicated with by cable and he replied stating that

ANGUS MCLEAN NEW HEAD OF CHAMBERBODY

Bathurst Business Man Succeeds Col. Woods as President of Organization

EXECUTIVE TO MEET PREMIER AT OTTAWA

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—Angus McLean, of Bathurst, New Brunswick, general manager of the Bathurst Power & Paper Company, Ltd., was this afternoon elected president of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce at the annual convention here. Mr. McLean succeeds Colonel J. H. Woods, of Calgary, as head of the organization.

George C. MacDonald, Montreal, was elected chairman of the executive committee. Bert G. Armento, and M. W. Wilson, Montreal, were elected vice-chairmen of the executive.

Two vice-chairmen were appointed this year, instead of one.

The executive council of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce will be asked to arrange a conference with the Government immediately upon the return of Premier R. B. Bennett from London, to discuss the views of the chambers with regard to the St. Lawrence Waterways, as a result of a resolution passed.

It was also resolved to approach the Government of the Dominion and the National Research Council of Canada, and urge upon them the necessity of developing, through research, new uses for Canadian grain and other farm products, and their by-products.

Civil Warfare Is In Full Force in States of Brazil

Clashes Between Federal and Insurgent Forces Imminent—3,000 Miles of Coastline Battleground, With Biggest Cities, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro, the Stake

Planes and Warships Ready for Action

IO DE JANERIO, Oct. 9.—Civil war in Brazil was in full force today with engagements between large forces of Federals and insurgents imminent in both the North and South. Three thousand miles of the country's Atlantic coast line have become the battleground for a struggle between the Federal Government of President Washington Luis and scattered bodies of insurgents generally acknowledging the leadership of the Liberal statesman Getulio Vargas.

The stakes are Brazil's biggest cities, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro. The campaign has fallen roughly into three sectors.

DEFITIVE BATTLE

In the south, large Federal and insurgent forces are reported to be on the verge of a possible decisive battle within striking distance of Sao Paulo. The insurgents, heavily reinforced during their northward advance from Rio Grande do Sul, are driving for the rich prize of Brazil's industrial heartland.

In the north, hastily assembled armies are manoeuvring for an important encounter. The insurgents report they have an army of 30,000 men in the three states of Ceara, Alagoas and Maranhao, which they have occupied.

A Federal army with its base at Belo Horizonte has announced an early campaign northward into the vast regions of equatorial Brazil to spread the revolution.

CAPITAL'S FOOD SUPPLY

To the west of Rio de Janeiro, in the big, insurgent state of Minas Gerais, the Federals have claimed initial successes. They are attempting to safeguard the capital's food supply as well as to dislodge the rebels.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The British Isles and English Channel areas experienced wind and rain of unusual violence yesterday and last night but were quiet today.

SAYS RECOVERY WILL BE RAPID

Colonel J. H. Woods Declares Spirit of Canadians Has Not Faltered

WHEAT POOL STABILIZER

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—We have been passing through a hard season, but the dawn is here. We see like those who have been walking through a tunnel with the bright sunshine showing at the end of it. The spirit of our people has not faltered, and does not fail in the face of troubles that have been beyond our control, and the recovery of our people will be rapid and more thorough than of any other nation that I know of." This was the optimistic message of Colonel J. H. Woods, Calgary, representing the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at a joint luncheon of the Toronto Board of Trade, Canadian Club and Empire Club today.

A WORLD CHANGE

"We are not the only people who have been shocked by the new conditions that face the marketing of food products, and as the months go by we realize even more completely that our trouble in this respect were not due only to local conditions or to local causes, but that they have been and are part of a world change which will involve, in some measure, at least, a reconstruction of the world's basic industry, namely, the production of food from Mother Earth," continued Colonel Woods.

BALDWIN ACCEPTS BENNETT PROPOSALS AS PARTY'S POLICY

Meeting of the Imperial Conference was, it is learned, that the exact meaning of the Bennett proposals might be explained to the British ministers and the other Dominion delegations. Various questions were asked and answered, but the British Government has not yet indicated its attitude.

DELEGATES ADJOURN

Following today's discussion the main conference activities were suspended over the week-end. Tomorrow the representatives of the various provinces will attend the memorial service to be held in St. Paul's Cathedral for the victims of the R-10 disaster.

Not until Monday will the heads of the delegations resume their consideration of the Canadian proposals.

One important subject which was discussed today by the committee of the conference, which is studying communications, was the Canadian suggestion that a powerful radio station should be erected in British Columbia—station strong enough to broadcast to all the Dominions and colonies of the Empire.

SASKATCHEWAN TO GET TOTAL OF $1,500,000

REGINA, Oct. 9.—An agreement entered into between the Province of Saskatchewan and the Federal Government provides $1,000,000 for relief in the province and $500,000 additional set aside for the peculiar problems encountered in the areas where there have been crop failures.

HINCHLIFFE IS GIVEN OVATION AT CONVENTION

Councillor Lambert of Burnaby took exception to the remarks of Mr. Hinchliffe, stating that it wasn't a question of the number of pupils per teacher but getting teachers qualified to teach the large number of subjects. The minister checked Mr. Lambert on some of his remarks.

"There is a political atmosphere in this room and I want to get it out," said Councillor Lambert. "But down, sit down," came shouts from the hall.

ATTITUDE HAS CHANGED

In concluding, Mr. Hinchliffe stated that since the last session of the Legislature those who opposed him in the House in trying to bring relief to the people of Saskatchewan had since come to him and said they had been wrong and that they should have approved of his plan. He had, however, great hopes that in the near future school boards will be making a great reduction in their claims on municipal councils when discussing estimates.

Mr. Hinchliffe was given a demonstration on leaving the hall as his defense of his policies undoubtedly made a big impression on the delegates.

NANAIMO, RESOLUTION

A resolution from Nanaimo urging the convention to reject any steps that would have been taken to deprive the provincial government of its revenue power or to defer the postpone payment of taxes was approved and delegates went on record as favoring the 15 per cent rebate. Greater Vancouver delegates all supported a reduction in discount to 12 per cent.

A resolution that the Municipal Act be amended by limiting exemption of property vested in or held by His Majesty to unimproved property, and that property used solely for official Government business from which the Government derives a profit, be taxed, was left for the new committee, on suggestion of Alderman Bridgeman, chairman.

MORALE OF FARMERS

"And in this regard," he said, "I do not hesitate to speak to you about the pool system of marketing. I have no brief for the pool, nor any excuse or explanation to offer for any errors that it may or may not have made. Concerning these, I am not sufficiently expert to judge. But it is my firm conviction that the Wheat Pool is the greatest stabilizer of the morale of the farmers of the West that exists today."

To it, in great measure, these farmers have pinned their confidence and their pride as masters of their own destiny. And, indeed, and in my belief, the destruction of that confidence, the psychological results that would inevitably follow upon an abandonment or even partial abandonment of the system that they themselves have created, would be an injury almost beyond calculation."

MARKET BRANCH IS INVESTIGATING GRAPE GROWING

Success With Interior Vineyards Is Deemed Capable of Expansion

ONTARIO EXPERIENCE IS TO BE REVIEWED

Rapidly increasing acreage given over to grape production in the Okanagan Valley, notably at Kelowna, has led to an investigation by the market branch of the Department of Agriculture into the possibility of developing a British Columbia wine industry on a large scale. W. C. Duncan, director of marketing for the Province, is now in Ontario making a first-hand study of what has been accomplished in the East along this line.

Two years ago, it is stated, only forty-five acres were planted to grapes in the Okanagan, and the initial success achieved with the trial has led to a quadrupling of acreage under cultivation in vineyards. At present, home and Prairie demand for British Columbia grapes is limited, but the future development of the industry on a much larger scale are being studied. Growers in Ontario have established a considerable business in growing grapes for wineries, vineyards flourishing along the Niagara Peninsula.

While in the East, Mr. Duncan will make a study of the condition of British Columbia fruit and other produce arriving on the market, and will report on the quality of the pack distributed there. Jam and canning prospects, as they apply to this province, will also be investigated.

J. A. Grant, representing the markets branch, left the city yesterday for the Prairies, where he will keep in touch with the movement of British Columbia apples. British Columbia has a large apple crop this year, and knowledge of the volume that can be absorbed on Prairie markets is of considerable importance to the growers at this stage of the season.

Mr. Munro traced the first garden back to old Fort St. James, where Daniel William Harmon planted vegetables in 1811. This, it was stated, was the first record of a garden west of the Rockies. The post town of the territory, which is now embraced by British Columbia, were at Fort Fraser, in 1812. A year or two later a garden was planted at George.

The needs of a community of larger proportions were considered, with the milling of flour. The first flour mill was established at Fort Langley in 1849, and grain was supplied not only from the immediate country but from settlements at Kamloops. Chilliwack and elsewhere on the Fraser.

HORSES INTRODUCED

The history of the introduction of horses into British Columbia fitted into the story, Mr. Munro noting that the first horses known in the province were ridden by Indians who acted as couriers in the Sod Creek district. When freighters started over the Cariboo route about 1860, a number of horses were brought up from Mexico by the B-X Express Company, a man called Kingley, an expert in the handling of horses, managing the animals.

Mr. Munro next told about the introduction of cattle into British Columbia, and particularly interesting to learn that the first dairy cows arrived at Fort Langley in 1839 and the first beef cattle reached Victoria in the early 1840's. During the Cariboo rush, large herds of beef cattle were driven in from Washington and Oregon to meet the needs of the mining camp.

BIG CONTRAST

The deputy minister indicated how great the change by comparison to the present day, when the combined herds of the province totalled several hundred thousands.

A former well-known resident of Victoria, the late William Ellis, who lived here for many years after he retired from farming, planted the

"The Cabinet has therefore passed an order-in-council setting forth that the duty on glass should be reduced to 10 cents per ton.

SHIP'S STEWARD CERTAIN HE SAW HOME OIL MAN

Member of Crew Informs Police He Recognized L. H. Tweedie

DESCRIPTION OF MAN ON DOCK CIRCULATED

Considerable mystery surrounds the reported disappearance of Louis H. Tweedie, office manager of the Home Oil Distributors here, according to officers of the provincial police who are investigating the case. Supposed to have taken passage on the St. Joachim Joan crossing the Gulf on Monday night, Mr. Tweedie has been missing from his customary circles since that time. His clothing and personal effects were found in a stateroom on the steamship after the vessel docked and all other passengers had gone.

Meanwhile John Chipperfield, a steward on the Joan, has reiterated his statement to the police that he is convinced he saw Mr. Tweedie standing on the wharf about an hour after the vessel docked. His attention was drawn to the figure of a man wearing a dark suit, a grey sweater pulled up tight around the neck, and a shapeless cap, whom he thought was Mr. Tweedie, known to him by sight.

Chipperfield told the police he looked a second time, as it struck him as odd that, if it were Mr. Tweedie, he should be wearing such clothes, and that he was convinced it was the man.

Meanwhile the authorities have continued their search in the hope that some natural clue may still be found. The Victoria office of the company reported yesterday that it had no word of the whereabouts of Mr. Tweedie.

Chippipfield told the police he

Lightning Strikes Church

DURING a recent storm at Fort William, the Swedish Lutheran Church was struck by lightning, and although the church was severely damaged, several people had miraculous escapes from death and injury. When the church was struck there were thirty-five little girls receiving tuition in the basement, but before the timbers could fall through the floor the children were outside.

ARGUES PROVINCE HAS EXCEEDED ITS PROPER AUTHORITY

James Hunter, who has returned from a tour of Europe, entertained the members of the Rotary Club at noon yesterday with a description of some of the outstanding features of the trip. In this connection he dwelt at considerable length upon the visit to Oberammergau, where the Passion Play was seen.

Eight hours four in the forenoon and four in the afternoon, the troupe of actors in the Passion Play occupied in the presentation of the play. The time seemed short, too, he said. One was translated for the time back to the days nearly two thousand years ago.

PRaises B.C. HOUSE

Referring to London, Mr. Hunter abided to the good work that was being done at British Columbia House by Pauline and W. McAdam, former residents of Victoria. There had been a very large investment of capital from the Old Country in this province directly attributable to the good work they were accomplishing in British Columbia House.

In his native land of Scotland, the speaker said that in Edinburgh the most magnificent war memorial that is to be found anywhere. It attracted visitors to the city, who went to see that alone in many instances.

Tripped down the Rhine, with its many scenery, including the hundred castles was described in Berlin. Mr. Hunter found the hotel accommodation of the best in every way.

He was a little disappointed in Florence, where the streets were narrow and travel was difficult because of crowds.

Venice on the other hand proved a great attraction to the speaker, who enjoyed every hour there. He dwelt upon the night scenes on the canals, with the entertainments that are provided for the visitors.

KING'S INFLUENCE

Rome was pictured by him at some length, but he said that no one could take in the tremendous attractions of the Eternal City in a limited time. He was informed while there that the King of Italy, while not a large man physically was nevertheless a man who exercised, in spite of the general opinion held, a very important part in the affairs of the country. He did not agree with a theory advanced by Mussolini, it was said that the latter's views did not prevail.

At the conclusion of the address prizes won in the golf tournament were presented to the winners of the various events, which included Gordon Leckie, A. H. McLaughlin, P. R. Surrah, J. H. Bentz, M.P.P., Robert Brenchley and John Johnson.

Thomas McConnell reported on behalf of the pageant, stating that there would be some $1,000 surplus left when all was concluded.

BENNETT THE AUDACIOUS

Mr. Mackenzie King says Premier Bennett did not speak with the voice of Canada when he delivered his epoch-making speech before the Imperial Economic Conference. Which is just about what Mr. Mackenzie King might be expected to say, and we question whether when the former Premier said what he did say, he was speaking with the voice of the people of Canada. Certainly if Mr. King had been the Canadian representative at the Imperial Economic Conference he would not have said what Mr. Bennett said. He would have made a speech; it would have been a long speech. He undoubtedly would have lauded the Canadian Imperial Preference and pointed with pride to the marvelous effect that preference had upon the business relations between the different parts of the Empire and the wondrous effect it had upon the unity of the Empire. Well, the time appears to have come to tell the truth about the system of Imperial preferential trade, which was conceived in the womb of the Laurier Government and ushered forth by the late Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance in the Laurier Government. The Imperial Preference was largely a delusion and a sham, certainly it was never anything more than an unimpressive gesture as far as the promotion of trade between Great Britain and Canada was concerned, and instead of drawing the bonds of Empire closer and tighter, under it the bonds of Empire have been getting looser and weaker. Whatever growth there has been in the trade of Canada during the twenty odd years the preference was in effect was not a growth in the trade between Canada and Great Britain; it was a growth in the trade between Canada and the United States, and the greater part of the benefit from the growth of that trade has gone to the United States.

Mr. Bennett, when he issued his clarion call to the people of all the Empire, may not have spoken with the voice of all the people of Canada, but we are sure he spoke with the voice of a large majority of the people of Canada. At any rate, he was elected to speak before the Conference. Mr. King was rejected by the electors and was deprived of the privilege, which he would have enjoyed mightily, of speaking before the Conference. Mr. Bennett has been hailed in Great Britain as the leader who has been raised up at a critical time to marshal the forces of the Empire for a new political and economical crusade. Mr. King was never a leader in any movement. As a Canadian he had but one idea in his head. That was an idea of unrestricted trade relations with the United States; but he had not the courage to act in accordance with his idea. And even the idea was not original; it was an inheritance from preceding Liberal leaders and administrations. When all hope of closer trade relations with the United States had to be abandoned because of the extreme protectionist policy of succeeding American administrations, and when the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill delivered its final telling blow at the trade of Canada, the King Government had nothing to suggest for the relief of the depressed trade of this country. Of course there were some mysterious hints at an increase of the British Preference, as though there were some subtle virtue in a policy which was largely a sham and wholly a humbug. Even the Liberal friends in Great Britain of the King Government scoffed and jeered at the preference and declared that it was a preference merely in terms set forth upon paper. If that policy that was of no value to Great Britain and just as little value to Canada, what purpose could be achieved by increasing it?

Preference in business to be of any value must be mutual. The Premier of Canada has suggested to the Government of Great Britain and to the governments of all the British Commonwealths and dependencies the adoption of a policy of mutual preferences. Mr. Bennett also has candidly and fearlessly declared that if Imperial Preferences are not made mutual, the Canadian preference might as well be abolished. British public men and newspapers have declared that the Empire had reached a critical stage in its history. That crisis was not created by Mr. Bennett. It was created by world conditions. Apparently no British leader had the courage to face the facts and state them. That is why the fearless speech of Mr. Bennett, which has also been described as an audacious speech, has produced a sensation in Great Britain and excited comment throughout the world.

THE LATE WALTER FRASER

The Colonist joins with the many friends of the late Mr. Walter B. Fraser in conveying to Mrs. Fraser and family expressions of deep and sincere sympathy in the affliction which has fallen upon them so suddenly and unexpectedly. Only a few days ago Mr. Fraser, who was in the prime of life and appeared to be enjoying the best of health, seemed destined to enjoy length of days. Yesterday the blinds of his residence were drawn and his family was numbered among those who mourn.

Mr. Fraser was born in Liverpool, where his father, before he came to Victoria to engage in business and permanently reside, was an inventor and manufacturer in a large way of appliances in demand by shipbuilders.

Although a native of Liverpool, Mr. Fraser was educated in a school in a beautiful and quaint little town in the South of Scotland. The educational establishment was conducted by a pedagogue of some celebrity, Mr. Husband. Young people from many parts of the world were sent there to be educated. Husband's School was in the immediate neighborhood of Cumbloch, one of the several and the principal of the residences of the Earl of Galloway. The Lady Galloway of that day apparently had a very exalted idea of the importance of her position and the dignity of her own and her husband's family. The boys of Husband's School like all boys of a certain age, had little reverence for family or position, and sometimes neglected

STARTLING EXPOSURE

The League of Nations may be all a correspondent cracks it up to be; but we do not know of anything it has done by way of achievement for the British Empire, which bears the largest proportion of the cost of maintaining it. We have before us at the present time a copy of The London Morning Post. We do not know where our copy of The Post came from—probably it was sent in as a matter of courtesy by some kind friend, to whom we express our obligations. There is a leading article in The Post which conveys the impression that the League of Nations has proved a friend in need for the Socialist Government of Great Britain, or that the Socialist Government has employed the League of Nations for the achievement of its own political ends. Some time ago the League discussed and adopted a resolution requesting the nations of the world to adopt a tariff truce. None of the principal nations, with the exception of Great Britain, appended their signatures to the resolution, or if they did they appended their signatures "with reservations," for since the tariff truce resolution was passed there is hardly an important nation in the world that has not increased its tariffs. The MacDonald Government appears to have taken the position that as it was a signing party to the tariff truce it cannot discuss a policy of preferential trade within the Empire. Read what The Morning Post has to say upon that point:

"It looks a little as if they were throwing the keys of our British Customs Office into the Lake of Geneva, so that they might say to the Dominions: 'We're very sorry; but that door is closed and we cannot open it.' We are not surprised to hear that this thought has occurred also to the minds of the Dominions, which, by the way, are not parties to this tariff truce. They have been assured, however, by Mr. Graham that these suspicions are unfounded; that the Government really intends to have free discussion of tariff policy at the Imperial Conference, and that if anything is to be done incompatible with its Free Trade policy it has the right to denounce the Tariff Truce Convention on February 1. Such are the assurances which are said to have 'comforted' the Dominions; but to our ears they have a hollow sound. For when all is said that can be said by the suave politician, there remains to the plain man this reflection—that no Government can follow two opposite lines of policy at one and the same time. The Government has pledged itself not to raise duties with a view of inducing other nations to do likewise or more. How, then, can it discuss with an open mind the proposals of the Dominions to frame a system of mutual preference against the rest of the world?

The Government has gone into its tariff truce policy by itself and without the co-operation of the Dominions. It has gone into it knowing that the Dominions follow the opposite policy, and knowing also that that policy is likely to be the basis of discussion at the Imperial Conference. It has thereby divided the representatives of the British Empire at the League of Nations and has demonstrated to the world that we are divided on the fiscal question. It has chosen the 'restoration of Europe' as an alternative to the union of the British Empire. While it has acted as if free trade within the Empire was impossible, it has staked its credit on free trade in Europe. It has, in fact, preferred the foreigner to our own people, and is so deeply engaged in Geneva that it is no longer free to pledge itself at Westminster."

The policy of Mr. Bennett in essence is preferential trade within the Empire and fair trade with the rest of the world, with special preference for trade within the Dominion. That is to say, if free trade is impossible, fair trade is quite practicable.

DOLE-DRAWERS AT THE SEASIDE

There is an ironical flavor in news that dole-drawers in Lancashire who have given up the idea of a pleasant outing are chartering motor coaches for the purpose of returning to their home town and signing on at their labor exchanges there in order to retain the benefit of the dole. This is one more example of the fashion in which the dole habit is becoming ingrained and the disastrous effect it is exerting upon the character of those who draw it.—London Daily Mail.

A wise player ought to accept his throws and score them, not bewail his luck.—Sophocles.

Former Premier of France Warns Germany of Dangers Should Crisis Lead to War

Says Recent Actions Have Created Feeling of Tense Vigilance

By PAUL SCOTT MOWRER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chinese Daily News Foreign Service.)

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Total destruction for Germany is predicted by Paul Painlevé in today's Le Matin, if the German people in the present crisis

Belching
Bad for business—bad for health

choose the way of war rather than that of peace. M. Painlevé, former prime minister and noted pacifist, is an ardent friend of the Franco-German friendship, advocate of disarmament and one of the leaders of the French Liberal party.

His warning is interpreted to mean that the whole of France is galvanized by the recent events in Germany and stands completely ready to resist at any cost movements and tendencies in Central Europe making for a transformation of the defeat of twelve years ago into a victory, whether by mere threats and swashbuckling or by actual hostilities.

TENSE VIGILANCE

This transformation of French psychology in the last few months from one of easygoing concessions to tense and determined vigilance is widely considered a political development of importance on which doubtless is destined to play a lead role in international affairs for some months, perhaps years to come. It means, or seems to mean, that France and the French group of powers, as long as the present tension continues, will not only make no more concessions and will demand no further ones, but will presumably proceed to strengthen their own defences and interests in all possible ways.

M. Painlevé's pronouncement follows two other similar, though more carefully veiled, warnings within the last few days, first from Premier André Tardieu in a political speech, and second from Foreign Minister Aristide Briand in a speech at Armentières.

WERE GIVEN EVERY AID

After emphasizing his admiration for German science, art and industry, M. Painlevé recalls how the Allies, twelve years ago, were about to give up the struggle and could have broken it apart.

He respects for the new German republic they chose not to do so, fondly believing that with the flight of the Kaiser they could count henceforth on the co-operation of the German people in the cause of peace and democracy and that the nightmare of forty-five years of German threats was finally ended.

INSULTING CHORUSES

"What the stupefaction, not to say indignation, of these great spirits when there now are millions of Germans applauding the sanguinary vociferations of a play actor without a country who aspires to the place left vacant by the fallen Kaiser," M. Painlevé asks, "and when from Coblenz, just evacuated, come to us the insulting choruses of the German Republic."

OBITUARY

With Fire Prevention Week in full swing, citizens are again reminded of the care and precaution necessary to prevent fires. Matches used so commonly but not always so well, are sometimes the cause of fire. The following suggestions are put forward in the hope that parents and children will familiarize themselves with them, and by so doing, assist materially in the prevention of fire.

"Never dispose of a used match thoughtlessly. Always see that it is out. If indoors, place it where it can do no harm. If outdoors, break it two, and stick the head end in the ground or step on it.

"Do not carry matches loose, and do not allow children to carry them. Keep matches in covered boxes, jars, or cases, never stoves, stove-pipes and out of reach of rats and mice."

TEST MERIT OF DOLLAR BEING KEPT WORKING

Marked Bill Will Start on Mission Early Saturday Morning

RECORD TO BE MADE AS TO ALL MOVEMENTS

"This is a Canadian Prosperity Dollar, and is sent out to prove what a dollar will do when kept by you."

"Sign your name and pass it on quickly to some Victoria merchant or firm in the purchase of Canadian-made goods."

"If you have this bill in your possession at 5:30 please phone 1243 so that a record can be kept of the dollar's travel."

"A dollar spent in Canadian goods is a dollar saved."

This is the message which is being attached to a dollar bill which is being utilized as a token in aid of the Prosperity Week in the city. This drive commences on Saturday, and first thing on the morning of that day this marked dollar will be started on its mission. It is asked that it be used only in the purchase of Canadian-made goods, and as it is used, each person receiving it is requested to enter his name on the slip attached to the bill, so that a record of its travels may be kept.

Each day announcement will be made of the course that the bill has taken and this will form an interesting record of what can be accomplished. The money is kept circulating in the purchase of Canadian-made materials.

The request is made in this connection that there shall be no lagon the part of this marked dollar. Citizens are asked to keep it working and thus afford the opportunity to derive all the information possible from this test of active circulation of money.

PREMIER HEADS ANNUAL REVIEW OF P.G.E. LINES

Directors on Three-Day Inspection of Government-Owned System

PREMIER WILL RETURN TO VICTORIA SUNDAY

Premier Tolmie, in his capacity of Minister of Railways, accompanied by the directors of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, left Vancouver yesterday morning for a three-day trip over the Government-owned line. Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works, was to accompany the party for part of the tour, which is by way of an annual inspection trip over the holdings of the road.

The Premier, with several members of his Cabinet, spent all day Wednesday in the Mainland city, and granted audience to a number of delegations on different matters. He is expected to return to Victoria on Sunday, after arrival back from the P.G.E. trip in Vancouver on Saturday evening.

John B. Parker, Minister of Lands, and Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Labor and Mines, represented the Government in Victoria yesterday, other members of the Cabinet being away on business for the province.

Hon. Joshua Hincliffe is attending the Union of British Columbia convention at Nelson, while Hon. W. C. Shelly, Hon. R. Brum and Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., crossed to Vancouver in company with the Premier this week.

DONATES SWITCH KEY TO RAILWAY MUSEUM

First Conductor on Northern Pacific Recalls Incident Preceding Killing of General Custer

Robert Sweetman, first conductor on the Northern Pacific, who now is in his one hundredth year, has presented to the museum of the railway company the first switch key ever used on that pioneer railroad system.

Mr. Sweetman, who now lives at Red Lodge, Mont., went to work for the railway in 1883, being promoted to conductor in 1887. When the first excavation for the roadbed was made, one-half mile west of the present station of Carlton, near Duluth, Minn., he participated in a celebration at that time marking the beginning of construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad system sixty years ago. At the first, he was assigned to the first excavation for the roadbed, and was one of the first to arrive on the battlefield after the battle in which Custer and his men were annihilated by the Indians.

Fred Sweetman was born in County Tipperary, Ireland, March 4, 1831. His father was Irish, and his mother of Scotch descent.

SAYS MUNICIPALITIES' FINANCES IMPROVING

Robert Baird Tells Convention That Careful Administration Has Brought Better Conditions

KELOWNA, Oct. 9.—The advanced municipalities in their financial affairs were considered satisfactory by Robert Baird, municipal inspector, who addressed the B.C.G.M. delegates this afternoon.

At the same time he did not approve of all financial policies of some municipalities. The improvement shown in recent years he attributed to careful administration.

One of the reasons of the difficulties encountered, he said, was due to mistakes in the early days, and that municipalities today were paying for indebtedness carried over a long period of years.

He offered criticism on assessments and debts, and that every effort must be made to keep within the limit of the valuation of the first switch key, which now is a valued relic in the museum.

CUSTER COMPLAINED

"STATUE OF THE MUNICIPAL TECHNICAL OFFICIALS" was the subject of an interesting address by George W. Walker, M.P.P., Vancouver, to the municipal convention here today.

Speaking from an engineering point of view, with some little municipal experience, he said, it was peculiar, but there were a great many aldermen and councillors who think they are heaven-born engineers and are thus intolerant of skilled technical advice.

He cited one of the principal duties of a municipal engineer was to advise his council as to bond issues, the fundamental principle of which was that the bond should not run very long after the utility was worn out.

"So he said I was a polished gentleman, did he?"

"Well, yes. It meant the same thing."

"Ah! What was the exact word?"

"He said you were a slippery fellow."

Gray, his wife and a little child miraculously escaped serious injury. Gray, according to Constable Cummings, of the Saanich Police, was proceeding north on Quadra Street. Gray was traveling south at the time of the mishap. The car, with the exception of slight damage to the roof, was none the worse for the accident.

Count Zeppelin, pioneer of rigid, lighter-than-air flying craft, succeeded in flying for the first time on October 9, 1906. With the King and Queen of Württemberg looking on, he took off over Lake Constance in a newly-constructed ship and executed two brilliant flights.

ENDED IN CRASH

The Count previously had made two attempts to fly a dirigible. The first, on October 17, 1906, was abandoned for lack of funds with which to purchase the gas and the second, on January 17, 1906, ended in a crash during a storm. Success of the October 9 flight led the Ministry of Finance to appropriate $250,000 marks for a Zeppelin lottery, together with an appropriation of $50,000 marks by the Reichstag, provided for the construction of a floating hangar for the exclusive use of the Count.

SEEM INSIGNIFICANT

The dimensions of this first Zeppelin are insignificant when compared to those of the second. The new model, 117 metres long, had a diameter of 11.7 metres, a capacity of 11,300 cubic metres, and was equipped with two Daimler motors of fifteen horsepower each. The present Zeppelin is 235 metres long, has a diameter of 30.5 metres, a capacity of 10,000 cubic metres and is equipped with six motors of 510 horsepower each.

AT THE MEETING OF YORK SOUTH LIBERALS

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—The Liberal Association of York South has decided to hold a convention on October 15 for the selection of candidates to contest the riding in the forthcoming by-elections.

This decision is in direct opposition to a recent announcement of the Ontario party leader, W. E. N. Mackay, that he would not attend the York South convention if the election was delayed until November 1. Comprising the capacity is being increased by the installation of a larger machine, the old compressor to become supplementary. W. E. N. Mackay, of Seattle, states that an assessment of 7 cents to 10 cents a share will probably be levied on the 1,000,000 shares outstanding. Each new share represents five shares in the old company.

GOLCONDA MINE NEWS

Three carloads of zinc concentrate and three carloads of lead concentrate have been shipped from Golconda since operations were resumed about a month ago. Sinking of the shaft from the 1,600-foot level is proceeding, and drifting will start in the 1,800-foot level about November 1.

DONALDSON—MCLEAREN

The wedding of Elizabeth Christine (Tootsie) Donaldson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McLaren, 723 Powerley Avenue, and Mr. William Donaldson, son of the late Mr. Donaldson and Mrs. Donaldson, Winnifred, took place quietly yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Barrett, 1025 Pandora Avenue, Rev. W. G. Wilson officiating. The house had been massed with autumn flowers and greenery for the occasion, and the wedding march was played by the bride's cousin, Mrs. J. B. Dawson. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a charming figure in her wedding gown, which was a saffron-colored bodice and lace skirt. She wore a hat of blue moire and shoes to match and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and pale pink carnations. Her only attendant was Miss Maquerelle Dayton, in a pretty frock of rose. Flowered ninon was worn with black lace and a picture hat, who carried a bouquet of Delphine chrysanthemums and Michaelmas daisies. Dr. Donald Graham supported the groom. Refreshments were served after the ceremony from a table attractively arranged with vases of pale pink lilies and tall pink candles, on which was placed the three-tier cake. Mrs. McLaren assisted in receiving the guests, who represented relatives of the bride and groom, and she was smartly attired in a gown of rose beige crepe. Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson left later for a wedding trip to Seattle and Portland, and will return when they make their home at 1000 Pandora Street. The bride traveled in a chic French suit of rose duvetin, with a brown hat and shoes and brown fox fur.

Special attention is paid to the dyeing of hair, which is popular.

A Hoffman, on the northwest corner of Yates and Government Streets, ran a "mart for drygoods, staple and fancy articles, silks, shawls, furs, gloves, riding hats, gauntlets, cravats and mantillas, the best quality." His slogan was "Small profits and quick returns."

No words were spared to a vertical advertisement for a patent cough remedy, large letters announcing, "Newell's Pulmonary or Cough Syrup. This article is no humbug; offered to the public under some high sounding name, but it is simply no more effective than its name indicates, a remedy, a simple one perhaps, for coughs or colds, sore throat or bronchitis."

Big Enough for Many Pies

Prosperity Food Fair Organized

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9.—Declaring that there is a wave of patriotic food buying spreading over Canada, as the result of housewives realizing that by purchasing home products the unemployment situation will be relieved, Mayor W. Makin officially opened the "Prosperity Food Fair" on the fifth floor of David Spencer's Limited, today.

This exhibition, made possible through the co-operation of more than seventy Canadian manufacturers, will be open for one week. The idea of staging such an exhibition has been suggested before, but has not become better acquainted with the products of Canada, originated with Col. Victor Spencer. The Mayor complimented Col. Spencer on the display and the patriotic spirit shown by his store in the advertising of Canadian products.

CHAPTER ARRANGES NOVEL SETTING

"A loaf of bread beneath the bough" may have satisfied Omar's "inner man," but H.M.S. Resolution Chapter has much more to offer the participants in the dance to be held on October 15, as an excellent supper is one of the chief attractions offered by this indefatigable chapter.

Among other things to appeal to aesthetic tastes will be songs, not sung in the wilderness, but to fair maidens in balconies. Then will be dancing, to make the daughters of the Quidi Nauli envious, by choice of dances. The atmosphere of a Spanish bull fight itself admirably to an Arabian dance, as the decorations are truly Eastern.

Wonderful music will be supplied for the light of foot, and a tempting oasis will attract the thirsty. Midnight blue skies, stars and crescent moons, sheiks and camels will add to the Eastern atmosphere.

The affair is so unusual that an unprecedented number of tickets is expected. At the Indian cabaret given by this chapter many people were disappointed at being unable to obtain tickets, so reservations should be made early. Tickets will be on sale soon at the Oak Bay Hardware Store, or may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Harvey, 9376; Mrs. Oliver, 3835R; Mrs. Mackenzie, 7623R, or Mrs. Cameron, 5764R.

Canadian Shoes

In keeping with the forthcoming week, which is to be known as "Canada Prosperity Week," the shoes supplied by William Cathcart, Limited, and worn by the mannequins at the fashion show at the Empress Hotel Wednesday afternoon, were all made in Canada, their general quality and style reflecting credit upon Canadian manufacturers.

Friendly Help Assists Many Needy People

During the month of September the Friendly Help Association dealt with 112 cases, representing 140 persons who were assisted. Seventy-six had groceries, 19 fuel (4 coal and 15 wood), 39 had milk daily and 52 had meat more than once; three pairs of children's new shoes were bought. From the room 41 had clothing, 36 provisions, including olives, ham, apples, jam, tomatoes, vegetable marrow, dripping sugar, eggs, groceries, plums, pears, vegetables. Six had sundries, as curtains, washstand, dishes, beds, springs, mattresses, chairs, table, patches, prayer book and a crib.

An appeal was made for a sewing machine at the monthly meeting held yesterday morning, the president, Mrs. William Wilson, the chair.

Mr. Morris will entertain the members at her home, "The Priory," 729 Pemberton Road, on Wednesday next.

Charwoman's Identity Finally Established

(Canadian Press)

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Oct. 9.—Two years after she had died, a charwoman's claim to natural birth was definitely established.

The remains have been completed to mark the grave in the Roman Catholic Cemetery here where it is now known lies a direct descendant of Mary Beeton, famous in Scottish song and story as Mary, Queen of Scots', four Marys.

Without money, too proud to enter the St. Thomas home for the aged, Eliza Sammagan worked in city houses doing general housework almost to the last, and till her death managed to cling to her one prized possession—a beautiful brooch, a miniature of the Mary Beeton whose name is preserved in the famous couplet.

There was Mary Seton and Mary Beeton and Mary Carmichael and me."

Ella Sammagan always claimed that her real name was Ella St. Thomas, alias Sammagan, the name of her mother. She always insisted she was descended from one of the four Marys. Her claims provoked much amusement.

Death records of The Journal, a weekly published a century ago here, produced a clue. The name "John St. Etienne" appeared amongst the advertised list of letters uncalled for at the post-office.

Today local historians made a search of headstones in the St. Thomas Catholic Cemetery and found the name of Ella Sammagan's mother. She died "Sacred to the memory of Mary Julianne Bissoon, beloved wife of John St. Etienne, alias Sammagan, who died April 2, 1878."

The connection between the St. Etienne and Mary Beeton had previously been traced. The tombstone provided the final link.

Shower to Be Held at Aged Women's Home

The monthly meeting of the committee was held on Tuesday afternoon, at 2:00 o'clock, at the Aged Women's Home, Mrs. Clay, the president, occupying the chair. Members present were: Madames Gould, Grant, Vincent, Heddle, H. Grant, Sabiston, Whittier and Misses E. D. McCallum, visiting him.

Leaves for East

Mr. R. H. B. Ker left yesterday afternoon on a business trip to Eastern Canada.

Six New Records Set In Athletics-Cards World Series Games

Connie Mack, Frisch and Hafey Shatter Old Marks—Three Fielding and Hitting Records Broken—Simmons Leading Hitter

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Although the 1930 world's series never will be famous for record breaking, a half-dozen new marks for the world's champion players were made by the Yankees, while the Athletics had five, setting a new low record for both teams. Three days later, in the fourth game, the Athletics recorded only three assists, again breaking the record. They also equalled the low mark in base stealing, at a theft by Frank Frisch, was the top man in the series. Last year the Athletics failed to steal a base, and the Cubs pilfered only one.

Frank Frisch, veteran Cardinal second baseman, led on the positive side as he collected six hits in the six games, to set a new record of forty-two, and a record of safe blows. He broke the old record of forty-two, made by Eddie Collins in six world's series for the Athletics and White Sox, in the first game, then cracked out three more blows. Frisch also has participated in six series. The former Fordham flash fell below the .300 mark for the series, however, and dropped his all-time average for championship play to .324 from .346.

HAFEEZ SETS RECORD

Right behind Frisch, his teammate, Chick Hafey, set a new mark by smashing out five two-base hits, one higher than the total which formerly gave a large group of players a tie for the record. The Athletics won three of a new kind when they won through two games without getting a one-base hit, all their blows going for extra bases. In the first clash they made five long hits and in the last seven extra base wallop. In each case there was a run for every hit.

The Athletics took their great leader, Connie Mack, and another leader, as all major league managers in setting results with his clubs. Under his guidance, Philadelphia has won five world's championships, and has lost in the world's series only twice. John McGraw has led the New York Giants to three world's titles in nine attempts, while the New York Yankees, under Miller Huggins, also won three times.

LOWEST ASSIST MARK

On the low side of the record breaking, the performances of the clubs on assist stood out. In the second game of the series, the Cardinals had only four assists, and under the four leaders mark made by the Yankees, while the Athletics had five, setting a new low record for both teams. Three days later, in the fourth game, the Athletics recorded only three assists, again breaking the record.

They also equalled the low mark in base stealing, at a theft by Frank Frisch, was the top man in the series. Last year the Athletics failed to steal a base, and the Cubs pilfered only one.

Among the near records, the Athletics' feat of getting seventy-seven bases on their thirty-five hits is about the closest thing to a new mark. Other teams have made a good many more total bases than their world series hits, but never on so few blows. George E. Earnshaw, the pitcher, need sixteen hits in three games, threatening the record of twenty-one strike outs by Joe Wood, of the Boston Red Sox, in 1912, and Jim Bottomley came close to another mark when he struck out nine times, one below George Kelly's "goat" mark made in 1921.

SERIES LEADERS

The list of series leaders follows: Batting—Simmons, Athletics, .400. Runs—Bishop, Athletics, 5; Cochran, Athletics, 5. Hits—Simmons, Athletics, 8. Doubles—Hafey, Cardinals, 5. Triples—Fox and Haas, Athletics, and Gelbert, Cardinals, 1. Home runs—Cochrane, Athletics, 2. Simmons, Athletics, 2. Bases batted in—Dykes, Athletics, 5. Bases on balls—Bishop, Athletics, 7. Club batting—Cardinals, .200. Athletics, 18. Pitching—Leading pitcher, Earnshaw, Athletics, won 2, lost 0; Haines, Cardinals, won 1, lost 0. Earned runs—Off Earnshaw, 2 in 26 innings. Struck out—By Earnshaw, 10.

BERG TO GET ANOTHER SHOT AT PETROLE

British Lightweight Will Battle Farq Express Tonight at Madison Garden

BRITISHER 8 TO 5 FAVORITE TO WIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Jackie "Kid" Berg, British lightweight, will have chance to recover the only real stain from his fighting record, a ten-round bout with Billy Petrole, the "Farq Express," in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Years ago, when Berg was gaining a foothold in the boxing business and before he became the perpetual "champion" of the ring, Petrole, a featherweight, knocked him out in five rounds at Chicago.

The pair, however, met again on the previous occasion.

Despite the record, Berg is an 8 to 5 choice to whip the Westerner.

Petrole, between refreshments, has managed to keep his punching equipment keen and still is rated as one of the stiffest clouters in the lightweight division.

Earnshaw Rated as One of Greatest of All-Time Pitchers

Sterling Performance of Athletics' Moundsman Compared With Game's Iron Men—Pitched 27 Scoreless Innings Against Cards

NEW YORK. Oct. 9.—There was only one nomination today for the player most entitled to enter the ranks of world series heroes.

He is the living legend, Earnshaw, New Yorker by birth, Philadelphia by adoption and achievement, alumnus of Swarthmore College and right-handed "iron man" pitching ace of the world's champion Athletics.

Earnshaw is thirty years old now, long past the day when he used to hear the old college cheers, but he still parts his hair in the middle and looks the part of an underdog. He is the greatest right-handed "iron man" in baseball now and entitled to rank with such famous old-time stars as Joe McGinnity, Colby Coombs and Big Ed Walsh.

After sharing the pitching "big act" with his team-mate and co-star Roy, Moses Grove, most of the work has been shouldered by the blane of pitching glory by hurling sixteen of the last eighteen innings for the A's. Earnshaw broke up what was expected to be a repetition of the fifth game "act" with Grove by striking till the last man was out, even though it was a struggle, while Grove continued to make gestures in the bullpen pen.

PITCHES 25 INNINGS

Earnshaw, altogether, pitched twenty-five innings against the Cardinals in three games, beat them twice and held them scoreless for the first seven innings of the game which Grove finished in St. Louis, and received official credit for winning. The "big moose" of the A's held his rivals scoreless for twenty-two innings in a row, which in a day and age featured by the so-called "Jack Rabbit" bats, is a comparison with the remarkable record of Charlie Mathewson in pitching twenty-seven successive shutout innings against the Athletics in 1905.

Mathewson allowed fourteen hits in the three shutout games he pitched against the Mackmen of twenty-five years ago. Earnshaw gave out only thirteen hits and two runs in the twenty-five innings he worked against the Red Birds.

THREE EARNED RUNS

Grove, who scored two victories in the series, delivered a total of nineteen innings during which time the Cardinals collected fourteen hits and five runs. Only three of these runs, however, were earned, the other two being due to an error by Dykes.

All Simmons was the most consistent of the Athletics at bat, hitting .311 in the three games, and he lived up to the best traditions of the league's batting king, leading the regulars of both teams with the stick. Simmons had the long range support, however, at various times from Cochrane, Foxx, as well as Dykes and Miller, who staged hitting comebacks in the final game.

Forix struck the most potent and important single blow when he fired his home run into the St. Louis stands in the ninth inning to decide the critical fifth game.

The Cardinals, twenty-year-old Charley Glibert, appearing in his first world's series, was a sensation at bat as well as in the field, hitting .311 in the three games, two victories scored by him and the two victories scored by the Red Birds to even the series at St. Louis. He led the Cardinal regulars at bat and handled twenty-eight chances without a slip-up in six games, making a number of sensational plays on ground balls.

Sunny Jim Bottomley, Cardinal first sacker, who was the biggest disappointment for the Cardinals at bat, probably had played his last game in a St. Louis uniform, the general expectation being that he will be traded before another season rolls around.

SENSATIONAL PLAYS

Three great fielding plays stood out. Perhaps the most spectacular was Bottomley's one-handed catch of Foxx's foul as he leaped far into the temporary field boxes for the ball in the third inning in the fourth game, taking the ball over his shoulder and getting it to the plate. Frank Frisch's amazing stop and throw-out of Mickey Cochrane in the final game were the other sparkling defensive contributions.

There was a total of eight home runs, six by the A's and only two by the Cards, but only twice were men on bases when these circuit drives were registered. These were the drives by Foxx and Dykes. Simmons and Cochrane, with two homers each, led the list. Douthit and Watkins contributed the home runs for the Cards.

BOWLING RESULTS

NANAIMO, Oct. 9.—In the bowling games played on the local alleys Tuesday night the Gyros took three games from the Bankers in a Commercial League fixture. G. Terry Ryan had a game with 212, and B. Kenna had a game with 196.

Ryan took two games out of three from the Billiard Hall in the Commercial League, with P. Ingman high score with 277, and high average with 210.

In the City Ten-Pin League the Nanaimo Hills took two out of three from the Motor Level, with H. Allen high score with 192 and high average with 174.

Debans took three games from the Laundry, with F. A. Hanna high score with 196 and high average with 218.

KID ROY KAYOED

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 9.—Roger Bernard, Flint, Mich., featherweight, knocked out Leo (Kid) Roy, of Montreal, in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout at Olympia Arena tonight. Bernard weighed 128 1-4, Roy 125 1-4.

Trick Boom of Enterprise

Above shows an unusual photograph of the "trick boom" of the Enterprise, America Cup defender, the boat which is the subject of comment in yachting circles, and of its employment in the course from a sportsmanship point of view questioned by United States yachtsmen. Instead of the conventional round boom it is almost triangular—flat on top like a racing shell and of about the same shape. It has a stiffening keel at the base of the "V" and is built up on ribs, two thicknesses of "layers" giving strength and lightness. The "trick" boom bows out on the deck's side and is crossed by fifty feet of track. Running crossways in each of these grooves is a little trolley, to which the mainsail is laced. Thus, the mainsail, although kept taut, is movable across the entire width of the boom. The boom is built of aerofoil, or curve, most suitable to the prevailing winds. In the centre of the boom may be seen the "trolley," and on each side of every pin is a pin. If it is desirable to give the sail its maximum curve the little trucks are moved to the extreme starboard of the boom and the retaining pins are moved to the holes also shown. Or any aerofoil may be given. The top of the boom is four feet wide at its greatest breadth, consequently Enterprise has the advantage of obtaining a maximum efficiency from her mainsail which is impossible in Shamrock V because her boom is laced direct to the boom without the use of "gadgets."

COLUMBIA Two famous composers are an integral part of the introduction—"Old English"—a part which he considers the best characterization of his long career. According to Old English, independence is the most precious of all possessions. Proud and defiant of convention is the rakish old rascal that George Arliss has so adroitly transferred to the Vitaphone screen for Warner Brothers.

"Old English" will open for a day at the Dominion Theatre with George Arliss starring in the role he made famous on stage in the supporting cast which includes Betty Lawford, Doris Lloyd, Leon Janney, Ivan Simpson and numerous others, add to the interest of the production which is exceeding even the great "Disraeli" in popularity. Alfred E. Green directed.

CAPITOL "Song of the West," the Warner Brothers and Vitaphone singing, talking, dancing all-color film, now showing at the Columbia Theatre, is one of the most inspirational pictures of pioneer days ever filmed. Melodious, merry, satisfying.

CAPITOL "The White Hell of Pitz Palu," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is another interesting tenor drama, and it has something never done before on the screen—a vocal dramatization by the greatest of broadcasters, Graham McNamee, the N.B.C. star, who is also famous as the Talking Reporter of the "New York Times." Never before, in vivid and colorful talk comes forth from the screen in the big situations of the story, as three human beings attempt to conquer a gigantic 12,000 foot height in the Alps—Pitz Palu.

PLAYHOUSE*FALSE ARREST LEADS TO ACTION IN COURT

Harold MacRae, former Child Constable of Richmond, sued Pay Total of $500 Damages

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9.—For false arrest and malicious prosecution, Harold MacRae, former child constable of Richmond, Municipality, was ordered in Supreme Court by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald to pay $500 damages to twenty-one-year-old Charles J. Johnson. The defendant was required to pay $50 to the young man's father, Morgan Thomas, farrier, of Steveston, Lulu Island, for expenses in connection with the arrest.

Claude Thomas was arrested by Const. MacRae on August 12 on charge of stealing a motorcycle. Defendant took place in the robbery of a milk truck driven by his father. Two days later the accused was brought before Magistrate O. E. Darling, who acquitted him.

The motorcycle belonged to Oscar Finch, who loaned it to Claude Thomas. The father returned the machine to MacRae, who had borrowed it, but in the meantime Richmond police were notified that Thomas had stolen the vehicle, and he was arrested.

The Other Bullet

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

CHAPTER X

Bossy, the beloved and docile under Peter's accustomed hands, behaved as if she were possessed of a particular and lively devil. Barbara's eyes smarted from dust, and her wrists ached with the effort of yanking the recalcitrant sheep around in a series of hairpin curves. The wheels bounded sideways across the stiff ruts, jolting Barbara's hair forward across her eyes, but she dared not take her cramped hands from the wheel to thrust it back.

Sheer canyons dropped away from the road at the right. Despite her effort to fix her eyes on the road, Barbara's gaze darted for brief instants to the left. The steep was the devilish that almost at the road's margin she was looking down on tree-tops, where the mistletoe hung in thick clumps like giant birds' nests. With a gasp she realized that the car had veered in the direction of her glance, and she wrenched it around. A cloud of earth crumpled under the rear wheel and fell with a heavy thud among the trees below.

With a sharp sigh of relief she caught a glimpse of huddled buildings ahead, where the road widened. Then, as she slowed down in expectation of the town, the tears smarted behind her eyelids and she caught her breath in a sob of disappointment. It was not the town after all—only deserted mining camps, abandoned, reliving the boom days of the California Mother Lode. The brick walls were roofless shells, the mortar had fallen from between the stones. Windows set deep in twelve-inch walls of crumbling brick and stone, were covered with rusted iron shutters. Barbara did not share Peter's habit of being practical, and she waited for a moment before the almost obliterated wooden sign on which the word, "Post Office," were still faintly discernible, she awoke gently and fervently.

"Oh!" Barbara cried in relief, "do you belong to these sheep?"

"Damm," said Barbara. "Oh, damn!"

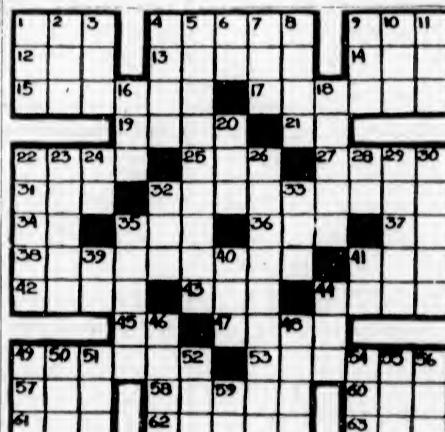

There was more of that road to face—or, if it, and it was ready interminable. She wondered if she could be lost—but there had been no cross roads which she could have possibly taken by mistake. She glanced at the speedometer, and found that she had come just seven miles. She longed to stop before that flapping sign marked "Post Office"—to sit there with her dogged, dull someone, came for her. But the sheets of Peter's story cracked in her coat pocket.

"You devil!" she addressed Bossy malevolently, "try and act human, just once, will you?" A gurgle of steam from the boiling radiator hissed a mocking laugh. Barbara sniffed nose somewhere in her mechanism; Barbara was quite certain that the balky little car was thumbing it derisively.

It was half a mile farther on that the horn, which Barbara had honked warningly at each narrow curve, croaked hoarsely and died. She jammed the bushes fiercely and futilely. And around the turn something was coming! Something—but it couldn't be wheels. A multitudinous tap-tapping, a diffused rustling, was ever more clearly audible from the hidden hillside at the left. Could it be a landslide?

With a grinding of gears, Barbara forced the car into second, and crept cautiously around the get into the car with me while I go to Gray's Flat and send a telegram, & then we'll go right back to Hangtown."

The sheep herder showed no surprise at the remarkable request, but stood by the road, the sheep eddying around him as one who is short of a cataclysm of nature.

"No, ma'am," he said. "I stay with the sheep."

Barbara beat her small fist impatiently against the door.

"But it's important! You don't know how important it is. Listen to me now you know a man named Mortison?"

"Sure—I know him."

The herd's heavy brows drew together. His black eyes suddenly glowed.

"Shoo!" she tried again. "Get out of the way! Shoo! Shoo!"

A few of the nearest blunt-nosed, stand-horned sheep followed him, a few of the bodies shifted and crowded in front of the radiator, but their places were immediately taken by others. Barbara forced her way forward a few inches, then stopped, her hands clasped close together.

"You know Julio, too, I suppose?"

"Yes, ma'am."

The man stepped forward and laid his huge hand on the frame of the door beside Barbara's. "I will tell you. Not for nothing do I say of a man that he is not good." Dark anger broadened his shoulders.

"Yes, ma'am, I come."

The herd's face relaxed into its former impatience. "First, I take the sheep to pasture. I go find Ju to watch them for me. Then I come to Hangtown."

"But you can't walk all that way."

Again white teeth gleamed—in this a broad smile. The herd's long arm reached toward the hills that formed the horizon.

reached, and brought that great circle within the curve of his arm, "take the sheep" he said with an impudent, placid calm. "I take them down below now. I find Ju—then I come."

The surge of bodies across the road had thinned to a trickle. The tap of individual hoofs was clearly audible. Scattering bits of gravel, the laggards followed the main flock, which, after a shifting, jostling, pushing below, Barbara's foot on the starter and waved her hand to the figure which was already clambering down the lower slope.

"Go to the Hangtown hotel and call for Peter Piper!" she called.

With one arm supporting a precarious balance against a tree trunk, the herder lifted his hand in an answering gesture.

"Sure, yes ma'am, I come!"

The perils of the road and the idiosyncrasies of Bossy passed unregarded from Barbara's consideration.

She walked to the bus and filed the telegram and hurry back to Peter with the news. Two hours later, her hair, skin and clothes reduced to a uniform dust-color, she leaped from the car in front of the Hangtown hotel.

"Oh, Peter," she called out before Peter had time to jump down to the seat in the car. "We've got Mr. Everett's alibi!"

"You're all right?" Peter asked anxiously, his hands on her shoulders.

"Of course I'm all right. Bossy behaved like a lamb."

Barbara beat her small fist impatiently against the door.

"But it's important! You don't know how important it is. Listen to me now you know a man named Mortison?"

"Sure—I know him."

The herd's face relaxed into its former impatience.

"First, I take the sheep to pasture. I go find Ju to watch them for me. Then I come to Hangtown."

"But that isn't all."

Barbara added more gravely. "I found out something about Julio that I think you'll want to follow up. It looks as if he might have had more to do with Mortison's death than we thought."

daughter what this Mortison did."

In some strange South European fashion he contrived to pronounce the name of Mortison each time as though he were spitting.

"Julio, he is wild. I do not like it because of the girl, but because of Julio. Julio is a good man."

Barbara had listened, scarcely drawing breath, during this loosening of the herder's long pent speech.

"To think that your sheep should have come to me!" she said.

"Listen to me now you know a man named Mortison?"

"Sure—I know him."

The herd's heavy brows drew together.

"I will tell you. Not for nothing do I say of a man that he is not good."

Dark anger broadened his shoulders.

"Yes, ma'am, I come."

The herd's face relaxed into its former impatience.

"First, I take the sheep to pasture. I go find Ju to watch them for me. Then I come to Hangtown."

Patrick, having committed a more or less grievous offence, found himself in the dock.

Counsel on his behalf addressed the bench thus: "Do not forget the character of the accused; he is a man of big heart, of philanthropic tendencies, and has never failed to do his duty; a man who has been a faithful husband and a dutiful father; a man—"

Patrick at this point intervened.

"Excuse me, sir, is it me you're talking about?"

ARTILLERYMEN OPEN WINTER SEASON WITH SMOKER AT ARMORIES

Marked by a monster smoker, the Winter season with the 12th Heavy Coast Brigade, C.A., opened at the Artillery Armories recently. Battery Sergeant Major Jack Maxwell occupied the chain and drum, and course of the evening short addresses were given by the battery commanders. Major Aubrey Bent and Captain McKenna, and R.S.M. H. P. Hooper and Battery Sergeant Major S. M. F. Dotot. All of the speakers emphasized the necessity of unity and co-operation and the importance of bringing the batteries up to strength.

Amongst those who contributed to the success of the evening was Salisbury's Orchestra, which dispensed excellent music during the evening; Captain Castle, with anecdotes, and Messrs. Guy, McLean, Hatcher, Crooks, Jackson, Brunell, Sparks, Gray and Cobbett with songs.

Victoria Building Shows Steady Progress of City and Suburban Districts

For many years past a city's progress has been gauged by its building permits. Sought after by financial houses, manufacturers, banks, advertising syndicates and a score of other business and professional institutions, permits for building have become the barometer by which is determined the commercial standing of a community. Absence of building usually indicates stagnation, while in the building trade but in all other lines of industrial activity, a generous amount of building, not due to a land boom, indicates a progressive town or city and therefore statistics of building have become relatively valuable.

BUILDING UP VICTORIA

Victoria and the adjoining municipalities of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, which form Greater Victoria, hold an enviable place in the

"I'd no more carry a lipstick than a hairbrush—"

"I don't have to," explains that charming film star, Myrna Loy, who is going on the lot or out on the town. "I make up my own lipstick. Then I know they will look their best—and keep looking their best—all day or even longer. I always have a mirror and a hairbrush who use Kissproof—the natural, lasting lipstick. At all toilet counters."

Rice Pudding

Beryl is sort of out-of-sorts. Doesn't want Rice Pudding, because it's made of milk, and milk always seems to distress her. But Mother needn't worry; the solution is easy. Give Beryl Nestlé's Evaporated Milk instead of fresh milk and eliminate the distress.

And here's the reason! Nestlé's Evaporated Milk is just the best of fresh cow's milk with part of the water removed—then sealed and sterilized in airtight containers. Add water again and you have absolutely pure, safe milk—but more nutritious than the ordinary milk because the large fat globules of the milk have been broken up into small ones of the same size as in Mother's milk. Also, the cards which form in the stomach when Nestlé's Evaporated Milk is used are easily digestible.

Use Nestlé's Evaporated Milk for Your Baby. Use it in coffee—in coco—in tea. Use it in all cooking and as a beverage by diluting with one to two parts water.

Victoria—a City of Modern Dwellings

A FEW of the scores of homes which are being built in Greater Victoria. The four views show two of the bungalow type, a style prevalent in this city; a two-story and a medium-sized apartment. These buildings were photographed at random and represent the class of dwellings being built in this city. The bungalow type, ranging from four to six rooms, appears to be the popular class of dwelling in Victoria. This may be due somewhat to the ease in which builders may adopt their own ideas of architecture.

RENTS. So the circle, beginning at the home is completed.

FIGURES OF GROWTH

An indication of the steady growth of Victoria and municipalities is afforded by the number of building permits issued during the nine months of this year. Building permits reached a total of $2,17,404, according to figures from the various municipalities. This figure represents 832 individual permits, of which 154 are for dwellings, exclusive of apartments.

From January 1 to September 30, Victoria issued 554 permits, having a value of $1,591,967. Oak Bay issued 171 permits carrying a value of $504,414; Saanich had 62 with a value of $37,253, and Esquimalt 45 with $5,770.

Oak Bay holds a distinguished position among municipalities for the number of houses built there, no fewer than seventy-two having been built in that period.

Victoria holds second place with fifty-seven, Saanich third with six, and Esquimalt nine, making a total of 154 homes for the nine months of this year. It is estimated that this will reach 175 before the close of the year.

VICTORIA STATISTICS

The above figures represent the outlay from the building standpoint, but does not indicate the additional amount of money expended on "extras" as they are termed in the building trade. Again the figures do not indicate the thousands of dollars expended annually in furniture and other necessary home equipment. If every new home owner purchased a piano or radio, washing machine or vacuum cleaner, a few more thousands would have to be added.

When building is moving everything else moves. From the home to the place of employment in the community is most beneficial. In the month of September, 154 homes which have been constructed in Greater Victoria this year represent an enormous outlay in capital and present to the rest of the Dominion a guaranteed certificate of the financial position of the citizens of the communities.

New Gymnasium to Be Opened Tonight

The formal opening of the new gymnasium recently completed as an addition to the Lake Hill Community Hall, will take place tonight at 8 o'clock, when ex-Reeve Crouch of Saanich, in a short address, will declare the building open. In addition to the gymnasium, a prominent feature of the proceedings will be an exhibition of boy basketball games should be played by two celebrated teams from Kestrel, Mr. Peden, who is a basketball expert, has been appointed to take charge of that sport at the Lake Hill Community Centre.

Refreshments will be served during the evening, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance of people from the district.

Striped Chipmunk Gives Advice.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Experience gives sound advice. You could not buy at any price. —Old Mother Nature.

Impy, the black Chipmunk, was just completing his bedroom when he was startled by the sound of someone in his long hall. He stopped to listen. "Someone is coming," thought Impy. "Oh dear, who can it be? I hope it isn't an enemy. For if it is I have no way to escape. Oh dear, oh dear, I wish I had a back door!" And then Impy experienced great relief. His nose brought him that relief. You see, his nose picked up the scent of the one who was coming down that long hall. Impy knew it was his father, Striped Chipmunk. Soon enough, a second later Striped Chipmunk appeared in the little bedroom.

"So," said Striped Chipmunk, "you have seen all of the Great World you want to see and are settling down."

"Yes," replied Impy. "But how did you find me?" replied Striped Chipmunk. "I had an idea that you wouldn't go far so this morning as I had nothing else in particular to do I thought I would look you up. You came further than I thought you would, and I might not have found you but that I remembered the pile of stones outside. You see, we have been over those before. When I found a pile of stones it didn't take me long to find the entrance to your home. That pile of sand out there gives it away. If Shadow the Weasel should come along, you wouldn't have a chance in the world. He would find the entrance right away and follow you in here. If you will take my advice you will have a carefully-hidden entrance with no telltale sand around it."

"That's what I'm planning," said Impy. "If you'll come outside, I'll show you where my new entrance is to be."

So they went outside and Impy led Striped Chipmunk over to a hollow in the ground with a knothole on the lower side. "There," said Impy, with some pride, "is where my entrance is going to be. What do you think of that?"

Striped Chipmunk shook his head. "It won't do," said he.

"Why won't it do?" demanded Impy, looking very much surprised.

So They Went Outside

"Because it would be found right away," replied Striped Chipmunk. "Who would find it right away? I'd like to know!" cried Impy.

"What I mean is," explained Striped Chipmunk, "that if a certain one of your enemies should come looking for you he would find it right away. He may not come around this way but if he does, one of the first places he will go will be inside this hollow log. I am talking about Shadow the Weasel. If you should have your entrance here, and shadow should come to examine this old log, he would naturally find the opening right away. You see, he is very clever of you, Impy, to think of this, but it won't do. You must look around for some other place."

"Where would you make it if you were in my place?" inquired Impy.

"That's a question I'm not going to answer," replied Striped Chipmunk. "You must find a place for yourself but let me give you a bit of advice. Don't leave so much as a teatime grain of sand in it, and see that it is where no one is likely to look for it. One of the safest doorways I ever had was right out in the open where any one could see it, because no one thought of looking for it there."

"One more thing. Get that entrance right away. Don't waste any time."

You will then have a way of escape from any one who enters the back door."

The next story, "Impy Makes His Doorway."

VANCOUVER EXPECTS GRANT OF $325,000

City Delegation Presents Claims for Assistance Through Unemployment Relief Funds

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9.—A grant of at least $325,000 from provincial and Federal unemployment relief funds for public works in the city this winter, exclusive of assistance on major projects such as the Burrard Bridge and the Canadian Pacific Railway tunnel, is expected by civic authorities following a conference at Hotel Vancouver, Wednesday afternoon, between City Council delegation and Premier S. F. Trimble and Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works.

This amount, it is stated, will be exclusive of the $100,000 which has already been promised for direct relief, as a refund for a portion of the amount expended by the city from January 1 to July 1 to meet unemployment.

If any of the money received as grants from the Government remains in the city treasury in March, it must be refunded to the provincial and Federal funds, according to Mayor W. H. Malkin, who headed the delegation which met provincial officials.

WINTER LABOR COSTS SHARED

The delegation was assured if the Government are prepared to bear a portion of the labor costs only, until next March, on the Burrard Bridge, the C.P.R. tunnel and possible school buildings.

On this question, said the Mayor, Government officials declined to comment themselves, but tonight City Engineer Charles B. Bowring will leave for Victoria, where he will present his complete works programme to Mr. Lougheed, G. P. Napier, assistant engineer in the Public Works Department, and F. E. Harrison, Federal fair wage officer, who represents the Dominion Government on the unemployment question.

Health Week was instituted in 1919 by the Royal Sanitarium Institute with the object of focussing public attention on matters of health for one week of the year.

Important factors in promoting good health are clean and tidy dwellings and surroundings. Assist your city health department in the work it is doing for the community.

If you have a house, see that it is well lighted and ventilated and kept free from rubbish.

Outbuildings on the lot are often receptacles for refuse which should be destroyed. If the outbuildings are dilapidated or no longer of use, pull them down. This will give you more air space, the lot will look better without them and a harboring place for vermin will have been removed.

Burn all garbage as far as possible. Before putting garbage in can provided for that purpose wrap same in paper; this will help keep out the flies and the garbage can clean. Be careful to keep the cover on the can.

Have your premises effectively screened to prevent the ingress of flies.

Do not permit flies, rats or other vermin to have access to your food.

Purchase your food supplies only from shops where the premises are kept clean and where provisions are properly protected from flies, dust and vermin.

Leslie J. Martin, sales manager of Home Oil Distributors, Ltd., of Vancouver, has been appointed to take charge of the Victoria offices of the company as temporary manager, succeeding L. M. Tweedie, Mr.

New York Market Slumps Below Low Mark of 1929; Steel Sells Down to 146

NEW YORK. Oct. 9.—The stock market swept down through last November's lows today.

Weakened by a month of almost steadily declining quotations, the price structure gave way under the unfavorable news of suspension of another member firm for insolvency. However, the market did not collapse; the decline, averaging 5.8 points, was orderly and gave no evidence of demoralization.

It was the largest drop since August 8, and the total sales of 5,050,600 shares were slightly above the 5,030,000 of the previous day.

Foreign investment stocks, which have been increasingly weak of late, gave ground freely, and many, including U.S. Steel and American Telephone, broke through their November minimums on extreme losses that averaged 5 points. Attempts at support were ineffective. The most striking example in this connection was the lively battle at the U.S. Steel market in the forenoon, when large buying orders failed to hold the stock at 150. It subsequently touched 146, closing at 146 3-8, off 1 3-4.

Net losses of 4 points were numerous in prominent stocks. In this group fell Case, Coca Cola, Electric Power & Light, Stone & Webster, John Deere, New York Central, and Columbia Gas. Good rubber, Ingersoll Rand, International Business Machines, Standard Gas, Rock Island, Allied Chemical and Westinghouse Electric closed 6 points or more lower, while in the four-point list were American Can, American & Foreign Power, American Telephone, Canadian Pacific, Gas Collection, Air Reduction, General Electric lost more than 3. Auburn Auto declined 8 3-4 and People's Gas and Hahn Department Stores preferred, 10.

With the exception of the unsettled Latin-Americans, foreign currencies were firm.

Bonds joined the trend of other securities today. Despite the solid foreign and domestic issues were the most drastic in several weeks, and in many instances were measured in points rather than fractions. No section of the list escaped.

B.C. BOND FIRM HAS ASSIGNED TO CREDITORS

F. E. Winslow is Appointed Custodian by Official Receiver Tyrwhitt Drake

LIQUIDATOR WILL BE NAMED AT EARLY DATE

The British Columbia Bond Corporation, Ltd., filed at the Court-house yesterday, an assignment of its assets for the benefit of its creditors, and the official receiver B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake, appointed F. E. Winslow, Victoria manager of the Royal Trust Company, as custodian.

Mr. Winslow will be in charge of the premises, books, assets and other property held by the B.C. Bond Corporation, until the creditors hold the statutory meeting and elect a liquidator. This, it is expected, will be about two or three weeks hence, time for serving notice to creditors being required.

Ryan was affected by the action of wheel and other grains.

The British Columbia Bond Corporation was up to the mark in doing business as a limited company. While many, but not all, similar brokerage companies had registered anew under recent legislation, this, it is stated, was not compulsory under the statute, and no time limit was set.

Bondage firms were consulting with the Government on various matters, some registering from time to time, and the British Columbia Bond Corporation had taken steps to do so.
